

‘Too many drivers exceed limit’

The 89 people killed on the province’s roads since December 1 is 13 percent of the country’s toll of 676 in 564 accidents.

Yasir Ahmed, head of the Safely Home road safety campaign in the Western Cape, said that in most cases, death had been attributed to passengers not wearing seatbelts.

Transport and Public Works MEC Robin Carlisle said: “Too many drivers exceed the speed limit. There are also those who are under the influence of alcohol and drugs, which can lead to a fatal end.”
